Seventy thousand "Ban-the-Bomb" demonstrators rioted in London while distributing pamphlets showing secret government hideouts designed for a nuclear attack. . . Mortar Board Taps At Formal Convo

On Monday, April 29th, at 7 p.m. in George Washington Auditorium members of Mortar Board tap rising seniors who exemplify the ideals of excellence at scholarship, leadership, and service. This formal convocation is held annually in honor of those juniors who have illustrated these qualities, exhorting in a leader.

Parents have been notified and will be present for the ceremony, tapping and the reception following.

The academic rating this year, as in every year, is based on a percentile of the rising senior class.

Campus Groups Offer Students' Scholarship Aid

Chi Beta Phi, the National Scientific Honorary Fraternity sponsored an auction on March 14, in the Ball Room in the Newman Club, to raise money for two $150.00 scholarships, given annually to two deserving upperclassmen majoring in math, biology, chemistry, or physics.

Amanda Wilford, president of Chi Beta Phi, would like to remind everyone interested in applying for one of the $150.00 scholarship to fill out an application in Dean Alvey's office before the end of school. The requirement for these two scholarships are based primarily on financial need, and secondly on academic achievement.

Formal Dance Committee

During the 1958-59 school year, the Formal Dance Committee pledged one thousand dollars, to be paid in two hundred dollar annual installments, to the National Defense Loan Program. The committee has helped us Courtney Lawson, was able to give four hundred dollars, contributing the final payment.

The National Defense Loan Program requires that the college contribute ten percent and the federal government contribute ninety percent to provide loans to students. The one thousand dollars paid by the Formal Dance Committee enabled ten thousand dollars to be loaned to students.

As a result of the Formal Dance Committee's making available the funds necessary to participate in the program, many students, both Virginia residents and out-of-state students, have been "freely assisted in their education."

Dr. Kaufman Speaks Here

In accordance with the Visiting Scholars Program Gordon D. Kaufman, Professor of Theology at Vanderbilt University will be speaking on "The Verification of Theological Knowledge" at 4:30, April 22, in the Student Auditorium. Professor Kaufman attended Yeshiva Divinity School on a Hooker Fellowship. He received a Fulbright grant for theological research in Germany. Professor Kaufman is also the author of several books, including "The Context of Decision," "Relativism," and "Knowledge and Faith."

Music, Ring Dance Highlight Weekend

The Chad Mitchell Trio in concert and an informal combo party highlight the annual Junior Ring Dance, to be held tonight in the Ahn Carter Lee ballroom.

The combo party took place last night in the Jockey Club Room of the General Washington Inn in Fredericksburg. The Embers, a combo from Richmond, were featured at the informal dance.

The Ring Dance will take place tonight from 8:30 to 12 o'clock. It will be preceded by a banquet for juniors and their escorts, to be held at 6 o'clock in the Rose Unit. The theme for the dance is "Over the Rainbow." Music will be provided by the Richard Maltby Trio.

At 11 o'clock the juniors will be presented their rings by their escorts. The rings were delivered Wednesday night, according to tradition, are not worn until they are presented at the dance. The traditional ring consists of a black velvet band with the college seal, in a gold setting.

This year's ring ceremony will take place with some changes from those of previous years. At 11 o'clock the couples will form a circle in the shape of a ring. Judy Finger, junior class president, will stand under a large model of the ring. To the tune of "Somewhere Over the Rainbow" each girl's escort will place the ring on her finger.

This simple ring ceremony will allow more time for dancing. In previous years each girl and her escort would stand under a large model of the ring and the escort would place the ring on his date's finger. This ceremony proved to be too time-consuming.

The Ring Dance will end at 12 o'clock, but juniors will have late permission to stay at the Jockey Club.

An additional attraction of the weekend for members of other classes is the concert by the Chad Mitchell Trio, to take place this afternoon at 2:30 in George Washington Auditorium. The concert is being presented as the project of the Sophomore class.

The Chad Mitchell Trio originated at Gonzaga University in Spokane, Washington, during the 1959 semester. For one year they sang for small groups on campus and in the city under the enthusiastic promotion of Father Bernard Bueh, a local Catholic Priest who had heard the boys while they were singing at the school. They were still concentrating on their career as college students when Father Bueh, who had to leave for New York City to attend to a local Catholic Priest's training course suggested they come along with him and see the country. The trip took six days, and the trio performed in New York, Manhattan, the Chad Mitchell Trio had more money than when they had begun the trip since their highly persuasive mentor had managed to secure several singing engagements for them along the way.

Once in Manhattan, things happened fast. Although they were unknowns, with less than a year's experience of singing together, the group's obvious talent propelled them within a matter of weeks onto Arthur Godfrey's daily radio show, into New York's famous East Side supper club, the Blue Angel, and before the year was out, appearances on such top television shows as the Pat Boone, Peggy Lee and Mel Tormé programs, and to top off the riotously successful first twelve months, at a Carnegie Hall concert with Harry Belafonte.

Kapp Recording Stars, the Chad Mitchell Trio, which consists of Chad Mitchell, Mike Kohlik, and Joe Frantz, have turned out such highly popular single records as "The John Birch Society" and such fast-selling albums as "The Chad Mitchell Trio At The Butter End" and "Mighty Day On Campus."

Never claiming to be "folk-singers," since to the groups way of thinking a folksinger is one who has experienced the things about which he sings, and has intimate knowledge of the areas from which his music sprigs, the Chad Mitchell Trio does, however, make considerable use of folk material, feeling that the folk idiom conveys, on the most artistic and effective manner, those ideas with which the Chad Mitchell Trio identifies and wishes to express. Despite this orientation, the group does not always choose material

The Chad Mitchell Trio is performing this afternoon at 2:30 in GW Auditorium.

Senior Declared Winner In MWC Book Contest

Judy Burkholder, a senior from Falls Church, has been selected as the winner of the MWC Book Contest. She won the $50 first prize in the Third Annual Mary Washington Book Collector's Contest.

The judges, Chancellor Simpson, Dr. Daniel Woodward, Mrs. Reginald Whidden, Dr. Peter Coffin, and Mrs. Edgar Woodward selected Judy's collection for the first prize and awarded second prize, twenty-five dollars worth of books to Bertha Davidson, a junior from Montross. Honorable mention was given to Betty Ann Ash, a senior from Falls Church.

Judy, as winner of the contest sponsored by the Tradebook Department of the bookstore, under the direction of Mrs. Graham

Carpenter, will represent Mary Washington in the Army Loveman National Book Collector's Contest. This contest, which is sponsored annually by the Book of the Month Club, the Saturday Review, and the Women's National Book Association, is open to seniors from United States Colleges and universities. The Army Loveman award for first prize is $1,000.

In judging the contest, the judges sought the entry which was a practical working library for the student, was a nucleus for a personal collection, and was a collection of discriminating judgment in collecting books. The judges made individual examinations to select the winners.

Linda Swanson Wins 'Best Dressed' Title

Linda Ann Swanson has been chosen to represent Mary Washington College in the seventh annual Glamour Magazine contest to find the "Ten Best Dressed College Girls in America."

Linda was selected from a field of sixteen girls, four nominated by each class. The contestants were judged on good figure and posture, good grooming, imagination and individuality in wardrobe planning.

Each girl wore three outfits: on-campus, off-campus or daytime, and formal. The wardrobe was not based on an extensive or expensive assortment of clothes, but rather on the development of good taste.

Photographs of Linda have been sent to Glamour and will be entered in the national judging. Semifinalists will be selected from the pictures, and the ten winners will be chosen from that group. The ten finalists will then go to New York for two weeks and will stay at the Biltmore Hotel. During their visit they will be introduced to members of the fashion industry, and they will extensively tour the city.

Linda is a senior from Glenview, Ill. She is 5'9", weighs 127, has light brown hair and is 21 years old. She is interested in radio and TV work and hopes to enter the advertising field after graduation.

She has also worked in the theater and has done some student directing. She is president of the Mike Club. Riding is one of Linda's favorite pastimes. She is a recognized judge for the American Horse Show Association.

Linda's wardrobe which she selected for the judging in the three classifications was very striking. For the on-campus outfit she chose a brown straight skirt, a brown and beige print blouse and a brown mohair sweater.

Linda's daytime ensemble consisted of a two piece knee-length knit suit in cranberry red. The suit had a straight skirt and an overblouse with a bow neck, a cowl collar and elbow length sleeves.

For formal wear Linda selected a basic black sheath and wore a beige mohair tunic over it. The tunic had two panels in the front and large black rimmed pockets.

The runners-up in the contest were chosen for our campus only, and will not have their photographs submitted for the national contest. The runners-up were Janet Bagg and Kathy Friedman.

Janet Bagg, a junior entry in the contest, was the first runner-up. She is a biology major from Pelham Manor, New York. Janet wore a powder blue skirt and sweater with a print blouse for her on-campus outfit.

For formal wear, Janet wore a two piece pink suit. For her last outfit, Janet wore a straight skirt with three quarter length sleeves and a full skirt.

The judges for the promenade were Miss Moran, assistant dean of students; Susan Armistead, editor of the Bulletin; Bonnie Ramsey, the newly elected student government president; Alice Andrews, Honor Council president for next year; and Anne Rutan, Honor Council president.

Linda is dressed for a day in Washington or Richmond. She wears a cranberry red two-piece suit and carries black gloves.

Training To Resume

With the completion of major campus elections the Sophomore Leadership Training Program will commence with a program on Tuesday, March 26 at 6:45 p.m. in Mason Recreation Room.

The meeting is open to all rising juniors and seniors. The topic under discussion is the role of the house president. The session is an introduction to house presidents' training which begins following spring vacation.

Featured speakers who will serve on a panel are Edna Ann Strong, Tabbe DeBatts, Van Newman, Bonnie Hirschhorn and Bonnie Ramsey.

Moderator of the panel will be Betsy Ross Johnson, Legislative Vice-President of SGA.

The new study room on the second floor of the library is spacious and airy. The newly installed sets of shelves still await their loads of books.

Topic of America's Image Discussed At Conference

FOCUS was a weekend symposium, non-partisan, entirely student initiated and executed by the students at Randolph-Macon Women's College. Mary Washington sent Ann McCallum and Devan Oldfield as representatives.

The idea of FOCUS was to stimulate an awareness and to break through the Red Brick Wall of academic isolation of campus. By providing an active exchange between students of the South and East and today's leaders, theory and practice were coordinated, bringing both the students and issues into clearer FOCUS.

The theme, "The Image of America at Home and Abroad," was chosen because it is an inescapable concern for every student. It is imperative for the United States to define its national goals and liabilities before it can perpetuate the American ideal.

From this theme, two questions arose: what is the image of America at home, and what is the image of America abroad? In the discussions of these two questions, there appeared another reality: is our image synonymous with reality?

"The Image of Business" by Clem D. Johnson, "The Image of Labor" by Jerry Carey, and "The Image of Government" by Senator William Proxmire, were discussed in relationship to their realities.

Russell Kirk, in his speech "The Public Image," discussed the public media of communication, how to improve the image of America through more and better leaders, what image really means, its relationship to truth, reality.

The Director of Special Protocol Services, Pedro A. Sanjuan, spoke mainly of the problems of racial discrimination, and its propaganda value for the Communists. He discussed the meaning of the human dignity of an individual and the problem of attempting to convince the Africans that we do believe in personal worth. We have to recognize the Negro as an individual, with personal freedom, and give him the equality of opportunity, as we must start at home, Sanjuan said.

Charles W. Yost, U. S. Deputy Permanent Representative to the United Nations, said in his speech, "The Importance of the Image of America in the United Nations," that images are important in the world of today. Does our reality at home live up to the image that we are attempting to show the world? Yost said that America must maintain its influence in the United Nations.

FOCUS was climaxed in a discussion on America's musical culture as depicted through folk songs. Paul Clayton gave a speech on the great cultural heritage of the American folk song. James Symington sang some international folk songs, and Charles Byrd gave a jazz concert.

YWCA Cabinet Elections New Officers Announced

At the YWCA meeting held on March 12, Susie Sell, the newly elected president, presided over the election of the executive cabinet. The winners will fill the positions of vice president, secretary and treasurer.

Jane Cioe has been elected vice president for the coming year. She is a day student who lives in Fredericksburg. She is a junior biology major. Jane transferred to Mary Washington from Madison College at the end of her freshman year. While she was at Madison, Jane served as a freshman dorm president.

Jane has been the day student's representative to the Y this past year. In that capacity she was also the co-chairman for the programs for Religious Emphasis Week.

The office of vice president will be altered this year. There will be the vice president in her duties, another officer elected to assist. The first vice president will devote all of her time to preparation for Religious Emphasis Week. The second vice president will be in charge of association meetings, devotions for the cabinet, and the large retreat.

The new secretary for the Y is Sara Page Cosby. Aside from the regular duties of her office, the secretary will also assist the vice president in making arrangements for Religious Emphasis Week.

Sara Page served on the campus social service committee for the YWCA this year. She has also been very active in other campus activities. She is a member of the 1963 May Court, the junior class secretary, co-chairman of the May Day dress committee, one of the four best dressed girls in the junior class, and chairman of the junior project-the fashion show. Sara Page will serve as one of the judicial representatives for next year.

Sara Page is a home economics major from Richmond. She is a member of the Home Economics Club and has served as a hall chairman.

Kathy Burke has been elected treasurer for the Y Association. She is a sophomore math major and lives in Vienna. Her YWCA activities include serving as freshman commissioner of Betty Lewis and WUS chairman for the dorm.

She is chairman of the faculty committee for Religious Emphasis Week and is on the Social Service Committee. Kathy also was a member of her class project committee, served as a hall chairman and is a copy staff member for the Bulletin.

The new cabinet will work in close affiliation with Jackie Wilkes, the southern regional director of the YWCA. Her office is in Atlanta, Georgia. Committee chairmen will be chosen at a future date. The new officers will be installed later in the spring.

Foundation Offers Language Study

Students at colleges and universities across the nation are eligible to participate in a unique foreign language program in Europe, offered this Fall by Michigan State University in cooperation with the Foundation for European Language and Educational Center of Zurich, Switzerland.

Twelve-week intensive language programs will be offered, beginning Sept. 30, in French at Paris, France and Lausanne, Switzerland; in German at Cologne, Germany; in Italian at Florence, Italy; and in Spanish at Barcelona and Madrid, Spain.

Deadline for applications for the fall program is March 27. As an integral part of each program, students will make frequent field trips and participate in seminar-type discussions devoted to the cultural, political, social and economic institutions—past and present—of the country in which they are residing.

Language students will reside with European families in order to more quickly gain linguistic proficiency and to understand more fully the people whose language they are studying.

Cost of the program varies between $730 and $850, depending upon location, and includes round-trip air transportation, room, board and tuition. Participants will leave New York for Europe Sept. 23, and return Dec. 23.

Persons interested in the fall program, or similar programs scheduled for winter, spring and summer 1964, may obtain applications or additional information by contacting F. J. Mortimore, Kellogg Center, Michigan State University, East Lansing, Michigan.

On Monday, March 18, the Physical Therapy Club will begin its spring project of selling belts, handbags, and scarves. Orders will be taken by a representative of the club who will visit the dorm during the week of March 18-21. The topsack, madras, and handbags and scarves will range in price from $1.00 to $1.50. Orders taken during this week will be delivered soon after spring vacation at which time more orders can be taken.

Each group discussed the general knowledge of the students about campus organizations. They felt that the Sophomore Leadership program was an aid to a limited group only. Handbook training, class meetings, honor counseling and house meetings were other functions which might help explain the workings of these organizations.

This group felt that mixed dorms would help alleviate problems of communication. They felt that class loyalty will be transferred to the dorm. The hall chairman's importance will increase in a mixed dorm in that they will be a definite link of communication.

It was thought that sophomores would make good freshmen counselors because they are so close to the freshman class, but might not because of the greater experience gained in two years of college rather than one. They felt that sophomores can serve in counseling capacity as big sisters. In discussing publicity, Jud group IV felt that the standardization of the size of posters in the next election lent themselves more uniformity. They thought that dorm bulletin boards should be screened daily, that a special announcement period be designated in each dorm; that posters should be removed from trees promptly following the activity publicized.

Discussions Help

Publicity in small dorms was criticized as a due need for a definite communication with day students was.

The girls stated that there has been a great participation in activities this year possibly due to the enthusiasm of hall chairmen and excellent leadership.

Mixed dorms will aid in the seniors' apathy in that here they will hold more dorm positions. Each group stated the importance of an inspirational and educational guide. They felt that the conference should be expanded to include more people and to include a longer period of time closer communication with the Bulletin would carry the theme throughout the year and publicize the meeting so that the rest of the student body could share the experience those who attended received.

The Bulletin recently received a mysterious request through the mail. The request was that we print the following advertisement:

"Will the freshmen girl accompanying the boy from Harrisburg, Pa. to Penn State (Sat. 2/23) please contact David Permy, Harpur College, Binghamton, New York."

If you know what this is all about, please let us know. We're curious!

MWC's 'Best-Dressed Girl' sports a campus outfit.

Attired for an evening party, Linda wears a beige mohair tunic over a black sheath.

Linda is dressed for a day in Washington or Richmond. She wears a cranberry red two-piece suit and carries black gloves.

Vacation Change

Many students have recently stated their view that the spring vacation at MWC is unreasonably short. In recent years, it has always begun on a Thursday and ended on a Tuesday, therefore spanning only one weekend. Many have suggested that a vacation spanning two weekends would be possible, since would mean only two more days of classes missed. Students would then be able to leave on Saturday and return on a Sunday, giving nine days of vacation as opposed to the present six.

Several advantages to this plan have been cited. This extended vacation period would make possible travel to greater distances than is now feasible for students. (For example, trips to Florida, Nassau and the like, would be easier to make.) The inclusion of two weekends instead of just one in the vacation also has its special advantages. This plan is in use at many other schools, as most of us have found out from the friends we see at home who attend different schools. The one-week plan, spanning two weekends, seems to be a widely accepted one. Why can we not incorporate it at MWC?

Of course we understand that the two extra days of classes missed would have to be made up somewhere in the calendar. (The possible place would seem to be at the beginning of the fall semester, since our school year generally starts a little later than that of other schools anyway. By the time the end of summer arrives, most of us are ready to return to school and are more or less tired of summer idleness. To return to school a couple of days earlier than usual, therefore, especially when most of our friends have already left for their schools, would probably be agreeable to all.

When asked about the possibility of this plan, a member of the administration recently said that some faculty members travel abroad during the summer, and normally get back just in time for the start of classes, and that this would be hard on them. It does seem, however, that a day or two couldn't make much difference to one who has been traveling all summer.

One other problem which would have to be solved is that of freshmen arrivals. Under the projected plan, classes would start on a Tuesday rather than the present Thursday. The freshmen, however, have always arrived on a Sunday, so that parents could accompany them to school. In order to keep this convenient arrangement, perhaps the freshmen could come a whole week earlier, thus providing for the entire week of orientation which has been discussed several times in the past. This is entirely a separate problem, of course, but one which has a bearing on the vacation problem.

It is evident that several such questions must be ironed out before any vacation change can be made. The change could not go into effect as soon as next year because next year's calendar has already been planned and published.

If there is enough student demand for such a change, however, the administration will form a committee to study the possible solutions.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:
This letter comes in response to your March sixteen editorial entitled "Concert Cancellation." I could not help but be struck by its smug and irresponsible tone. No blame is to be attached to Mary Washington College for the cancellation of the Williams College choir engagement. Society in general and Fredericksburg in particular are the sinister forces at work. Furthermore, there is not even a hint that persons at Mary Washington might begin to take some responsible action to tie that "ugly racial prejudice" will diminish and eventually disappear.

Aside from the fact that every person in our country is involved in the guilt of racial discrimination, I am not nearly as sure as the author of the editorial seems to be that our college is entirely innocent of acting in a "prejudiced or intolerant manner." In short, I am painfully reminded of the parable Jesus told of the Pharisee and the Publican. I think that the Publican is not like other men, etc., etc. (Luke 18: 9-14).

Sincerely yours,
ESTELLE ROYNTREE
Presbyterian Campus Worker

Dear Editor:
I feel at a loss as to what to do about the recent chorus cancellation. Probably no one person or group of people is to blame for the incident. It is easiest to place the blame upon our society since that seems to alleviate the guilt feelings of the individual. However, I do not feel that as college students we can pass the buck so easily. If we wish to consider ourselves as adults then we should be willing to accept the responsibility of adults. We must take it upon ourselves to fully understand the situation, not just in this particular incident, but in the overall problem. Then we must make a decision and stand for it. Of course we must take it to understand the decisions which others have made and allow them the right to make their own decisions, but we cannot let tolerance be an excuse.

The faculty may not be able to fully express its opinions without the aid of recriminations, but as students we have every obligation to do so. "We" are the ones who are supposedly being "protected" from integration. Because I know of no other action to take, I wish to at least take the active step of expressing my opinion in particular as to the sinister forces at work. Furthermore, there is not even a hint that persons at Mary Washington might begin to take some responsible action to tie that "ugly racial prejudice" will diminish and eventually disappear.

Sincerely,
JEANNE TATE

Dear Editor:
I would like to congratulate you on your editorial concerning the cancellation of the Williams College concert. I think your editorial and the letter to the editor protesting the cancellation show a great degree of unprejudiced openmindedness and speak very well for the student body of MWC.

Sincerely,
JOHN TIOHIG

Not Going to Ring Dance? Of Course I'm Desperate!

By BETTY CAULDE

The following dialogue between two juniors is fiction, and not intended to depict specific people. However, it is typical among some frantic juniors during the past week. Ring Dance is approaching, and juniors are excitedly preparing for the big day of their year.

A WEEK BEFORE THE DANCE:
"But, rumie, I've been waiting three whole weeks for this—the late status symbol of black only on the little pin, and now I can't even get a date for the Ring Dance!" I mean, really? I can't line up by myself, and I really don't think it would be too cool to latch on to your date."

"You have a friend? Who has a friend? Who's best friend has a darling boyfriend? I could go with him." "Oh, he has a friend. But he might fix me up if I'm desperate. Well, who the heck is... how tall? Just about a mile... no cracks."

"You know, rumie, I'm really a shy retiring type, and well, the seniors last year kinda all followed suit and well, their dates all... well, I really don't go around kissing people I don't even know." "A good way to get to know him? Well, that may be true, rumie, but my mother always said... Okay, I'm desperate and I want to go. For three weeks I've been planning to wait underneath that ring and, well, it'll still be in place to watch you go under it. You know, rumie, they are really pretty rings. I certainly am glad I'm going to the dance."

THE NIGHT OF THE DANCE:
"Thanks, Humphrey, you're a good dancer yourself. Nobody's ever known you taught yourself all I'm dancing you know. Do you mind if we change from the valts to the fox trot now, though, since the Bird has a faster tempo. Thanks anyway, Humphrey, we'll go back to the valts again, though, if you don't mind." "Oh, you want to know what those people doing? Why, that's another dance. The Bird—that they do on this record. Oh, I figured you hadn't seen it. You want to try it, you say? Well, Humphrey, I don't know whether we should, I mean, in this dress and all. Humphrey, everyone's looking at me." "Humphrey, please, hand me over the song is over: Humphrey, LATER THAT NIGHT:

"Oh, no, rumie, we weren't too conspicuous... not quite the whole class was there, you know. Well, at least Humphrey added a

Devil-Goat Day Soon; To Feature Contests

Devil-Goat competition will take the campus spotlight early next week. Tuesday, April 23, has been set as official Devil-Goat Day, and at that time, the final play-offs will take place on the Hockey Field. Rivalry between the Goats, those classes graduating in even numbered years, and the Devils, those classes graduating in odd numbered years, has been a long standing tradition at Mary Washington. Each year Devil classes oppose the Goat classes in the major campus sports and in events which elicit more of an athletic skill but rather a sheer battle of wits.

Flag of the two teams will appear on Anne Carter Lee Hall early in the week to signify the actual beginning of the contests. Signs will be posted showing the number of points already collected by each team in previous matches during the year; as each event is completed, points will be added until the final contest is completed and the winner is announced.

Early last fall the first main feature of Devil-Goat Competition was held when the freshmen and their sister class were to outwrestle the Devils in an attempt to have their "bunnies" removed. Through out the later fall and winter months, hockey games, swimming meets, and intramural basketball game were played between members of the opposing classes. The points gathered in these contests will be included in the final tally.

The first major spring event will be a sudden-death doubles tennis match on the courts at 4:00 p.m. Monday. Mr. Coleman of the psychology department, Mr. Brown of the English department, Mr. Miller of the economics department, Mr. Coffin of the philosophy department, Mr. Holloway and Mr. Whidden will challenge Devil-Goat members of the Honor Tennis Team in the mixed doubles match. A Devil-Goat Lacrosse game will be played at 5:00 on Monday.

Competition Resumes
Competition will begin again on Tuesday at 4:00 p.m. on the Hockey Field. Relays between the Devils and Goats will be the first principal activity; there will be a hyron obstacle relay, a sack race, pie-eating contest, wheelbarrow relay, and a jump rope competition. A faculty-student softball game is planned for the afternoon. Mary Washington golfers will participate in a putting and driving demonstration of skills. Other activities are scheduled by the various R. A. groups on campus. Specific teams have been selected for the contests; those students who are in attendance and wish to participate will be invited to do so.

Culmination of the afternoon events will come with the traditional picnic supper for all Mary Washington students on the Hockey Field. Following the supper, entertainment will be provided; a diversified program including many familiar MWC personalities and several talented students who have never been staged at functions here before, is planned. Gents Hall, a Willard freshman who has become widely known on campus this year for her humorous dialogues and song-skits, will act as Mistress of Ceremonies.

Later on Tuesday, a swimming meet will be staged in the Anne Carter Lee Pool. The Terrapin Club will be in charge of this program, which will include humorous events as well as competitive swimming. A newspaper race, underwater swim, and various novel swimming feats and relays will be performed.

Devil-Goat Competition will climax on Tuesday night with the announcement of the victorious group. For many years rivalry between the two teams has been a driving force in the college. This year should prove no different. All students are urged to come to the end of the class and to witness the fun of Devil-Goat Competition.

Stephanie Cadman and Eleanor McIlilton illustrate the traditional Devil-Goat rivalry with a mock tug of war between a stuffed devil and a stuffed goat.

Honors Players To Open Season

For nine people spring is characterized by the warmth of the weather and the blooming of flowers, but for Mary Washington tennis enthusiasts, spring means the twing of a racket and the whiz of a ball.

Each day at 4 p.m. girls who are participating in the tennis team challenge each other on the Sunken Road Courts.

The honors team is rotating and is chosen by play-offs in a continuous round robin competition. Each girl who is interested in the team signs up on an alphabetical list. Competition begins and the players challenge the girl whose name appears directly above their name on the list. The first match one wins, the further toward the top of the list the girl progresses.

The honors team, then is composed of those girls whose name is one of the seven appearing highest on the list. Because matches are continually being played, the same girls may not always play on the honors team.

This spring the honors team will play one away game and two home games with other colleges. The first game of the season is this afternoon, April 20, and is with William and Mary College. The game will be played on their

Programs Explain Officers' Duties

Two panel discussions highlighted the most recent meetings of the Sophomore Leadership Training Program held in the Mason rec room on March 27 and April 3. The panels explained and discussed the role of the house president and the role of class officers.

Next year's house presidents, freshmen, counselors, and the counselors' roommates were invited to this meeting as the first step in their orientation to their new responsibilities.

The house president's relationship with the head resident, the legislative council, the judicial council, the honor council, and the joint council was discussed. Problems facing presidents in freshman dorms were explored and this discussion led to the relationship between the house president and the freshman counselors.

The panel members also explained the general trend in the attitude of sophomores and the "propaganda" which might help sophomores avoid the supposed sophomore slump. It was decided, however, that in reality this slump did not occur and that it was more a tradition to associate sophomores with this slump than it was fact.

The final portion of the meeting was designated to the conditions which will exist in mixed dorms. In those dorms which have been razed this year, problems of sign out and dorm policies have been met in different ways. Next year's house council decisions were thought to be the most effective way of establishing each dorm's policies.

Penny Partridge, next year's president of Virginia dorm, led the panel discussion for the April 3 meeting. The panel, which discussed the role of class officers, was composed of Ginny Robertson, vice president of the senior class; Alice Andrews, judicial representative for the junior class; and Betty Lovin, legislative representative for the senior class.

Each member of the panel discussed her respective office and explained how she, in her capacity, related to the fellow members of her class and to the faculty and administration. The girls also explained the problems with which they are faced and gave helpful suggestions to the girls who will hold their offices next year.

In a general discussion period which closed the meeting, the new class officers—president, vice president, secretary, treasurer, judicial representative, and legislative representatives—were asked to pose questions which pertained to their particular office. In this discussion, specific problems were enumerated.

The Director of Admissions, Michael Houston, will speak at the next Sophomore Leadership Training meeting which is scheduled later this month. Each member of the student body is invited to attend this meeting which will be held in the Mason rec room. Mr. Houston's talk will be a pertinent one concerning the standards for admission and the qualifications on which a girl's acceptance is based. This meeting is important in that an informed student can influence a prospective student to make application to Mary Washington. Through this discussion we will also be able to see the academic records offered to Mary Washington students.

Y Schedules Spring Retreat

The YWCA is planning the annual spring retreat. This year the retreat will be held at Mary Washington in the Owl's Nest on April 26 and 27.

Workshops will be scheduled to evaluate the various Y committees and the new procedures for next year. Individual workshops will be set up for each committee before the retreat. Round table discussions of all the committees will be held at the large meeting.

The new committee chairman for the 1963-64 session have been announced. The chairmen are Judy Askew, Community, Social Service; Nancy Carol, World Relatedness; Susan Cooper, Publicity; Helen Vokos, Campus Social Service; and Dorothy Wilkins, Worship.

During the retreat the new executive officers, with the exception of President Susan Solf, will be installed. The officers are Jane Coby, Vice President; Sara Page, Secretary; and Kathy Burke, Treasurer.

The speaker at the retreat will be Miss Estelle Routledge, the director of the campus Westminster Fellowship.

"Ann McCallum" is the secret password to free admission at Frederick'sburg's James Monroe Law Office Museum and Memorial Library on Charles Street.

Ann works in the library several days a week, and she reports that there are many fascinating historical displays to be seen.

Any MWC student may gain free admission to the institution merely by saying Ann's name!

Students To Perform

Sunday, April 28, at 3:30 p.m. in duPont auditorium, Roberta Murphy, a senior history major, and Judy Poole, a junior music major, will give a recital.

Roberta, a soprano studying with Mrs. Ross, will sing compositions by German, French, Italian, and English composers. The presentation will include works by Bachette, Bencini, Liszt, Monteverdi, Mozart, Purcell, Rummel, Schubert, Schumann, Spohr, Torelli, Vidal, and Woodman. Patty O'Bryhim, a junior, will accompany Roberta on the piano. Patty is a music major, is taking lessons from Mrs. Hamer.

Judy Poole, also one of Mrs. Hamer's students, will present a program of piano preludes. The program promises to be unusual in that it will consist of both reciting and playing. Music from the sixteenth century through late in the present century, that of Bach, Chopin, Mendelssohn, Franck, Debussy, Scriabine, and Shostakovich, will be discussed.

Girls are chosen for membership in Hoof Prints because of their interest in riding, their good sportsmanship traits, and their skill in the sport. The member of the club issue bids to those girls who demonstrate the above attributes. If the prospective members accept the bid, they must then try out on horseback for the old members of the club. The new Terrapin are freshmen Gandy Schumaker, Dee Dee Nottingham, Ellen Goodard, Kathleen Goodard, Kathy McNamara, and Sandy Mueller.

Girls who are interested in becoming members of the Terrapin Club must try out for the members of the club. The prospective members are judged on their perfection in swimming.

Devil-Goat competition will take the campus spotlight early next week. Tuesday, April 23, has been set as official Devil-Goat Day, and at that time, the final playoffs will take place on the Hockey Field. Rivalry between the Goats, those classes graduating in even numbered years, and the Devils, those classes graduating in un-numbered numbered years, has been a standing tradition at Mary Washington. Each year Devil classes oppose the Goat classes in the major campus sports and in events which often require an athletic skill but rather a sheer battle of wits.

Flag of the two teams will appear on Anne Carter Lee Hall early in the week to signify the actual beginning of the contest. Signs will be posted showing the number of points already collected by each team in previous matches during the year; as each event is completed, points will be added until a final contest is completed and the winner is announced.

Early last fall the first main feature of Devil-Goat Competition was held when the freshmen and sophomores classes were to out-guess the Devils in an attempt to have their "beanies" removed. Though on the later fall and winter months, hockey games, swimming meets and intramural basketball game were played between members of the opposing classes. The points, gathered in these contests will be included in the final tally.

The first major spring event will be a sudden-death doubles tennis match on the courts at 4:00 p.m. Monday. Mr. Goldman of the psychology department, Mr. Brown of the English department, Mr. Miller from the economics department, Mr. Collins of the philosophy department, Mr. and Mrs. Whidden will challenge Devil-Goat members of the Honor Tennis Team in the mixed doubles match. A Devil-Goat Lacrosse game will be played at 5:00 on Monday.

Competition Resumes
Competition will begin again on Tuesday at 4:00 p.m. on the Hockey Field. Relays between the Devils and Goats will be the first principal activity; there will be a hit-on obstacle relay, a sack race, pie-eating contest, wheelbarrow relay, and a jump rope competition. A faculty-student softball game is planned for the afternoon. Many Washington gofers will participate in a pulling and pushing demonstration of skills. Other activities are scheduled by the various R. A. groups on campus. Special teams have not been selected for the contests; those students who are in attendance and wish to participate will be invited to do so.

Culmination of the afternoon events will come with the traditional picnic supper for all Mary Washington students on the Hockey Field. Following the supper, entertainment will be provided; a diversified program including many familiar MWC personalities and several talented students who have never been staged at functions here before, is planned. Gertrude Hall, a Willard freshman who has become widely known on campus this year for her humorous dialogues and song-skits, will act as Mistress of Ceremonies.

Later on Tuesday, a swimming meet will be staged in the Anne Carter Lee Pool. The Terrapin Club will be in charge of this program, which will include humorous events as well as competitive swimming. A newspaper race, underwater swim, and various novel swimming feats and relays will be performed.

Devil-Goat Competition will climax on Tuesday night with the announcement of the victorious group. For many years rivalry between the Devil and Goat classes has been spirited and keen; this year should prove no different. All students are urged to come to the end of their classes and join in the fun of Devil-Goat Competition.

Stephanie Cadman and Eleanor McJilton illustrate the traditional Devil-Goat rivalry with a mock tug of war between a stuffed devil and a stuffed goat.

Honors Players To Open Season

For me, people spring is characterized by the warmth of the weather and the blooming of flowers, but for Mary Washington tennis enthusiasts, spring means the twing of a racket and the whiz of a ball.

Each day at 4 p.m. girls who are participating in the tennis team challenge each other on the Sunkin Road Courts.

The honors team is rotating and is chosen by play-offs in a continuous round robin competition. Each girl who is interested in the team signs up on an alphabetical list. Competition begins and the players challenge the girl whose name appears directly above their name on the list. The more matches one wins the further to ward the top of the list the girl progresses.

The honors team, then is composed of those girls whose name is one of the seven appearing highest on the list. Because matches are continually being played, the same girls may not always play on the honors team.

This spring the honors team will play one away game and two home games with other colleges. The first game of the season is this afternoon, April 20, and is with William and Mary College. The game will be played on their Williamsburg courts at 2 p.m. The second match will be with Westhampton College and will be held on our courts on Saturday, April 27. The final game of the season will be played with Richmond Professional Institute on Saturday, May 11 on our courts.

Girls are encouraged to both participate in team activities and to support the games which the honors team plays. Alice Funkhouser, RV tennis chairman, organizes and directs the team activities. Max Fitebeca Wooley, physical education instructor, serves as faculty advisor for the team.

Library Opens New Room

Among the recent additions to the MWC library are a smoking area and a typing room.

These rooms are on the basement floor next to the Mendel Museum. Since definite provision has been made for smokers' the Library Staff insists that smoking be confined exclusively to this one room.

All of the unbound periodicals are now on the Deck 5 stack, except the last two issues of magazines currently received. The two most recent issues are in the Current Periodicals Room. Persons desiring unbound periodicals should request them at the desk in the Current Periodicals Room. If no attendant is on duty there unbound periodicals may be obtained at the Main Charging Desk on the first floor.

Programs Explain Officers' Duties

Two panel discussions highlighted the most recent meetings of the Sophomore Leadership Training Program held in the Mason rec room on March 27 and April 3. The panels explained and discussed the role of the house presidents and the role of class officers.

Betsy Ross Johnson, past president of Virginia, moderated the March meeting which concerned the roll of house presidents. The other members of the panel included Bonnie Hirschhorn, president of Mason dorm; Bonnie Ramsey, president of Virginia dorm; Edna Armstrong, president of

Next year's house presidents, freshmen counselors, and the councilors' roommates were invited to this meeting as the first step in their orientation to their new responsibilities.

The house president's relationship with the head resident, the legislative council, the judicial council, the honor council, and the joint council was discussed. Problems facing presidents in freshmen dorms were explored and this discussion led to the relationship between the house president and the freshman counselors.

The panel members also explained the general trend in the attitude of sophomores and the "propaganda" which might help sophomores avoid the supposed sophomore slump. It was divided, however, that in reality this slump did not occur and that it was more a tradition to associate sophomores with this slump than it was fact.

The final portion of the meeting was designated to the conditions which will exist in mixed dorms. In those dorms which have been traxed this year, problems of sign out and dorm policies have been met in different ways. Next year's house council's decisions were thought to be the most effective way of establishing each dorm's policies.

Penny Partridge, next year's president of Virginia dorm, led the panel discussion for the April 3 meeting. The panel, which discussed the roll of class officers, was composed of Ginny Robertson, vice president of the senior class; Larky Booth, president of the senior class; Alice Andrews, judicial representative for the junior class; and Betsy Lovin, legislative representative for the senior class.

Each member of the panel discussed her respective office and explained how she, in her capacity, related to the fellow members of her class and to the faculty and administration. The girls also explained the problems with which they are faced and gave helpful suggestions to the girls who will hold their offices next year.

In a general discussion period which closed the meeting, the new class officers—president, vice president, secretary, treasurer, judicial representative, and legislative representatives—were asked to pose questions which pertained to their particular office. In this discussion, specific problems were enumerated.

The Director of Admissions, Michael Houston, will speak at the next Sophomore Leadership Training meeting which is scheduled later this month. Each member of the student body is invited to attend this meeting which will be held in the Mason rec room.

Mr. Houston's talk will be a pertinent one concerning the standards for admission and the qualifications on which a girl's acceptance is based. This meeting is important in that an informed student can influence a prospective student to make application to Mary Washington. Through this room and performing odd jobs for discussion we will also be able to see the academic merits offered to Mary Washington students.

Mary Ellen Houston and Dr. Bert Goldman of the Psychology Department enjoy an afternoon round of tennis.

Hoof Prints and Terrapins Hold Tapping For Members

Both the Hoof Prints Club and the Terrapin Club have recently tapped their new members.

Joining the Hoof Prints Club are freshmen Sandy Aiken, Sue Carlson, Mary Ann Hampton, Barbara Lamb, and Corley Wells. Sophomores who have been tapped are Kay Brooks, Betsy Handy, Judy Hawley, Peggy Mayo, and Betsy Wood, Junior are Janet Bagg, Kay Rogers, and Karen Shoemaker.

Girls are chosen for membership in Hoof Prints because of their interest in riding, their good sportsmanship traits, and their skill in the sport. The member of the club issue bids to those girls who demonstrate the above attributes. If the prospective members accept the bid, they must then try out on horseback for the old members of the club. After this practical try out, the girls are formally initiated and must wear costumes and obey the commands of the old club members.

The new Terrapins are freshmen Cand, Schumaker, Dee Dee Nottingham, Ellen Goodard, Kathleen Goodard, Kathy McNamara, and Sandy Mueller.

Girls who are interested in being members of the Terrapin Club must try out for the members of the club. The prospective members are judged on their perfection in swimming.

Girls who are tapped must be initiated. This process includes visits to each of the old Terrapin rooms and performing odd jobs for discussion we will also be able to see the academic merits offered to Mary Washington students.

Y Schedules Spring Retreat

The YWCA is planning the annual spring retreat. This year the retreat will be held at Mary Washington in the Ovis' Nest on April 26 and 27.

Workshops will be conducted to evaluate the various Y committees and the new procedures for next year. Individual workshops will be set up for each committee before the retreat. Round table discussions of all the committees will be held at the large meeting.

The new committee chairman for the 1963-64 session have been announced. The chairmen are Judy Skew, Community Social Service; Nancy Carol, World Relatedness; Susan Cooper, Publicity; Helen Yakes, Campus Social Service; and Dorothy Wilkins, Worship.

During the retreat the new executive officers, with the exception of President Susie Solf, will be installed. The officers are Jane Cline, Vice President; Sara Page, Secretary; and Kathy Burke, Treasurer.

The speaker at the retreat will be Miss Estelle Bourne, the director of the campus Westminster Fellowship.

"Ann McCallum" is the secret password to free admission at Fredericksburg's James Monroe Law Office Museum and Memorial Library on Charles Street.

Ann works in the library several days a week, and she reports that there are many fascinating historical displays to be seen.

Any MWC student may gain free admission to the institution merely by saying Ann's name!

Students To Perform

Sunday, April 28, at 3:30 p.m. on DuPont auditorium, Roberta Murphy, a senior history major, and Judy Poole, a junior music major, will give a recital.

Roberta, a soprano studying with Mrs. Ross, will sing compositions by German, French, Italian, and English composers. The presentation will include works by Bachet, Benigni, Luzzi, Monteverdi, Mozart, Purcell, Rummel, Schubert, Schumann, Spohr, Tosti, Vidal, and Woodman. Patty O'Bryhim, a junior, will accompany Roberta on the piano. Patty, a music major, is taking lessons from Mrs. Hamer.

Judy Poole, also one of Mrs. Hamer's students, will present a program of piano preludes. The program promises to be unusual in that it will consist of both lecturing and playing. Music from the sixteenth century through late in the present century, that of Bach, Chopin, Mendelssohn, Franck, Debussy, Scriabine, and Shostakovich, will be discussed.

Children Enjoy Drama Production

On April 16, the MWC drama department, in cooperation with the Fredericksburg Children's Concert Committee, presented "Snow White and Rose Red." Under Cathy Foster's direction, the cast enacted a drama about bewitched princes, sympathetic young girls, and a vindictive dwarf.

The cast included Eleanor Caldwell, mother; Pat McGarvey, Snow White; Karen Gustafson, Rose Red; Bobbi Odendahl, Prince Phillip, turned into a bear by Dolph, the dwarf, played by Barbara Moore; Pat Sarty, Prince Pierre, the fish-prince.

Taking place once upon a time, the play had five scenes which switched back and forth between cottage and forest. Behind-the-scenes work was done by Pat

Youngdale, lights; Jewel West, sound; Judy Allison, properties; Karen Gustafson, costumes, and Cathy Foster, scenery.

The Children's Concert Series, undertaken by wives of College faculty members, with Mrs. George M. Vansant as chairwoman, presents several programs for Fredericksburg children throughout the year. Each department cooperates with the drama students in sponsoring one member of the series. Through previous concerts, the children have been introduced to the worlds of music, theater and dance, and have been entertained by the chorus, the modern dance group, and the band. The Concert Series' goal is to combine education with enjoyment while entertaining the young.

Three Mary Washington Deans portrayed several aspects of the typical student in the recent faculty talent show.

MWC Students Succeed In 1962-3 Art Exhibitions

The art students at Mary Washington have been very successful this year in having their works selected for exhibitions and in receiving exhibition awards. The exhibitions have ranged from the student to the professional level and have sometimes been out-of-state shows. Many of the shows were composed of those works chosen by a jury of professional artists and connoisseurs. Thus, having their work accepted into the show of this type was in itself a tribute to the artist.

Among the jury shows were the Virginia Artist Exhibition, a show open to professional artists in Virginia, the Lancaster Art Exhibition in Lancaster, Pa. and the Lutheran Student Art Exhibition in Minneapolis, Minn. Mrs. John Embrey, a day student, and Cordelia Riegel, a senior, had two of their oil paintings selected for exhibition in the Virginia Artist Exhibition. Elhel and Edna Armstrong exhibited their work in the Lancaster Exhibition. Elhel was awarded first prize in the Non-objective Oil Painting Division. Elhel also received an exhibition award in the nationwide Lutheran Student Art Exhibition.

Oil paintings by Edna Armstrong, Betsy Evans, Carolyn Hawker, Elhel Armstrong, Denise Lynch and Cordelia Riegel were among the 71 works exhibited in the Virginia Student Exhibition at the Twentieth Century Gallery in Williamsburg. First prize was awarded to Cordelia Riegel, and an honorable mention was awarded to Carolyn Hawker.

Several Mary Washington students entered the Art Exhibit at the Fredericksburg Community Center. An abstract oil painting by Mrs. John Embrey was awarded "Best in the Show." Ellen Southgate received the purchase award for her oil abstract. In the Abstract Oil Division first prize went to Cordelia Riegel, and third prize was awarded to Carolyn Hawker. Honorable mentions in this division were given to Edna Armstrong, Ellen Southgate and Elhel Armstrong. An oil painting by Diane Dodge was awarded first prize in the Traditional Oil Division. In the Black and White Division a design by Elhel Armstrong received first prize. A charcoal drawing by Vickie Mason received third prize.

Second prize in the Watercolor Division was taken by Edna Armstrong. Elhel Armstrong won second prize in the Sculpture Division.

Delegates Attend Meeting

Robert Kiar, newly elected president of the RA and Cathy Morrison, chairman of the dorm representatives, represented MWC's Recreation Association at the national Athletic and Recreation Federation of College Women April 10-13.

Girls from colleges with enrollments from 300 to 35,000 students represented approximately forty states at the convention. Any school with an organized Recreation Association was eligible to participate.

The AFRCW meets every two years and was held this year at Women's College of the University of North Carolina in Greensboro, N.C. The purpose of the federation is to discuss intercollegiate participation in sports. During the convention emphasis was placed on individual recreation for enjoyment of sports rather than on group or team competition. Problems relating to intercollegiate sports were excluded entirely.

Faculty Talent Show Termed Successful

George Washington auditorium provided the setting for the YWCA sponsored faculty talent show entitled "Project 'Sa-Fu-ly in Orbit.'" The hilarious presentation was given on Tuesday, April 9.

The cast for the program included professors from many departments on campus and members of the administration. The program was quite varied. The numbers included such acts as singing and a skit depicting a "typical" classroom scene at MWC.

The program commenced with the antics of the MWC Follies. Some of the esteemed members of the group were Mr. Merchant, Mr. M. Houston, Mr. Baierlein and Mr. Emory. The musical portion of the program began with Victor Borge Punctuated Act by Mr. Pinchmitt. Lee's Leutenants, a barber shop quartet, gave several vocal selections. Mr. Baierlein sang a rendition of folk music.

A novelty number by Dean Alvey and Mr. E. Woodward preceded Dr. Cabrera's Spanish serenade. The Music Department presented Leofingimind and Radio Moscow Calling. The skit entitled "Difficulties Encountered in Getting off the Launching Pad" portrayed a classroom situation with Dr. Clio Dr. Quetzal, presiding. The cast depicted various types of girls on campus in a hilarious scene from "every day" life.

The cast included such figures as Lieutenant Bull-Moore, Mr. Houston; Miss Un-Made and Mrs. Holloway and Miss Deffenbacher. Over-Dressed, Miss Marauder, "83" was presented as an effort to raise the necessary funds to finance Martha's trip to South America this summer. Martha will be participating in a work-travel-study program called "Latin America '63." The program is being developed in cooperation with the YWCA's in Brazil and Bolivia.

The project participants were international, composed of students, staff and young volunteers from the United States and Latin America. Half of the group was assigned to Brazil and half to Bolivia for a period of six weeks. The girls will live in native families and share the cultural life of the countries. Various programs have been included, including working with orphaned children, helping to set up programs, literary, and recreation programs.

PanAm Hosts MW Chorus

The Mary Washington chorus was invited to perform in the annual celebration of Pan American Week in Washington, D.C. The chorus sang at the closing concert on Thursday evening, April 18, in the Hall of the Americas of the Pan American Building. The concert climaxed the week's celebration of concerts and programs.

The program consisted of works by Pan American composers. The countries represented were Canada, the United States, Cuba, Peru and other South American countries.

Some of the music that was performed included South American tunes, songs in Latin, and others from a more modern American background like "Summertime" from Porgy and Bess.

Final Exam Schedule Altered; Periods Added

There has been a change in the examination schedule for second semester. Provisions have been made for two additional examination periods to be added. One of these periods will cover classes meeting at 4:00 p.m. Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, and other will be for classes which are not covered in the schedule.

This has been done so that no examinations will be given except during the regularly scheduled examination period.
